

DesignBUILD welcomes structural and materials section in 2015

THIS YEAR'S DesignBUILD show floor will feature a dedicated structural and materials section for the first time, which will be home to more than 100 brands showcasing the latest design and technological advancements in the industry.

DesignBUILD Event Manager Ali Mead said the structural and materials section would take up almost 50 per cent of the show floor and feature several of Australia's leading brands across timber, insulation and roofing.

"The 2015 event will also feature a dedicated Landscape Outdoor Zone for the first time. Developed in partnership with AILA, the area will showcase landscape product exhibitors ranging from timber, bricks and turf and provide an exciting addition to the DesignBUILD experience," Ms Mead said.

Australian manufacturer of premium grade plywood, Austral Plywoods, is one of the leading brands that will be on the show floor and will use this year's event to showcase two of its latest groundbreaking plywood products, Ariaply and Endurapanel.

Ariaply is a factory finished plywood feature panel that is ready to install as a ceiling, soffit or internal wall. Its unique three coat system protects the plywood to offer a long-lasting, high-end finish. Ariaply is available in six colours, including natural hoop, blackbutt, spotted gum, jarrah, walnut and ebony.

Like Ariaply, Endurapanel is designed with easy installation in mind, as all components are factory finished. The product is a unique plywood panelling system that has the appearance of a traditional slat wall or ceiling. It creates a seamless look using tongue and grooved ends and offers either a slim line or bold cover strip.

Endurapanel is the first hoop pine product that has ever been recommended to be used as an external cladding. Prior to this product, Austral Plywoods had not recommended using hoop pine plywood in fully exposed areas.

To catch a glimpse of these new products, you can register to attend DesignBUILD for free online.

DesignBUILD also offers a free Industry Insights seminars, featuring local and international experts speaking about emerging trends in sustainability, technology and industry innovations.
